

CALCULATOR

ABA Authorization and Reassessment Calendar for Florida Medicaid (.ics)

A date calculator for Florida Medicaid behavior analysis cases. Enter the first day of the authorization, choose fee-for-service or an SMMC plan and, if you want, the dates of the last assessment and of the core instruments. It lists the last day of a six-month plan, the reassessment due date, the 180-day QIO authorization for fee-for-service and the next core instruments, and gives you an .ics file to add them to your calendar. A printable tracker covers a whole caseload.

Authorization tracker

Codes only, never names. The dates follow Florida Medicaid's coverage policy; your health plan may set earlier submission dates.

[illegible]

1 How to use it

1. Enter the authorization start date and who pays.
2. Add the date of the last assessment or reassessment and of the core instruments, if they are not the start date. The six months count from the last assessment.
3. Download the .ics file and open it with your calendar. Use a client code, never a name.

2 The dates it calculates

- The behavior plan covers the requested authorization period, up to six months.¹
- A reassessment and updated plan, to renew the authorization, at least every six months.¹
- Fee-for-service: QIO authorization before services start and at least every 180 days after.¹
- The core instruments go with the reassessments every 12 months.¹

3 What it does not check

- Each SMMC plan's own deadlines: since the February 2025 transition, services for plan enrollees are reimbursed through the plan.²
- An earlier reassessment, for example when a new behavior interferes with a major life activity and more services are medically necessary.¹
- Weekends, holidays or review times.
